

NEW ORLEANS COMING

LADS ALONG BIG RIVER GOING AFTER NASHVILLE

Henry Knapp's Triple Play Unassisted and Goes in Charmed Class.

ATLANTA, Ga., August 12.—Nashville's lead in the Southern Association race, so pronounced a week ago that experts were predicting the pennant safely in the hands of the Volunteers, has been cut down perceptibly by New Orleans in the past four days. In fact, the drive of the New Orleans team, which took three games from Nashville and one from Chattanooga, has proved the high spot of the recent struggle, making the contest once again a duel between Nashville and New Orleans.

Whether New Orleans, even with Outlander Allison and Infielder Stansbury, recovered from recent injuries and back in the lineup, can stand the pace Nashville may set when the Volunteers return to home soil, shortly, is a matter of speculation. The play of New Orleans this week was featured by an unassisted triple play credited to second baseman Henry Knapp, putting the Pelicans in the lead, that rare class of which there are said to be only thirteen others ever executing this play. With almost a month left to go, it is apparent that league will witness a real two-team struggle for the leadership.

Recent predictions that Atlanta was due to challenge New Orleans' position in second place seem to have failed to materialize. The Braves, after a series of starting victories, has won three and lost two games, while Chattanooga, the closest contender, has lost two out of three. Little Rock, which surprised experts recently with a series of starting victories, has won three and lost two games, while Chattanooga and Little Rock still are in position to dispute the two lowest places in the first division with Atlanta and Chattanooga before the season closes.

Forecasts that six of the clubs were ready for a fight with New Orleans for the Pelicans' berth in second place, seem to have been correct. Atlanta, Chattanooga and Little Rock still are in position to dispute the two lowest places in the first division with Atlanta and Chattanooga before the season closes.

Speaker Gains on Cobb

By landing for two hits in as many times at bat, Trip Speaker made a gain of five points on Ty Cobb in the batting averages, the former falling to him in three times up and losing three points from his standing of Saturday morning. Jackson also failed to hit in two trips to the plate and fell two points.

In the National League both Dave Robertson and Jake Daubert dropped the former losing one point on one hit in four times up, and the latter three points on one hit in five times at the bat. Wagner again was not in the game. The averages:

PETERSBURG WINS TWO

Home Club Slams Offerings of Visiting Pitchers All Over Field.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch] PETERSBURG, Va., August 12.—Petersburg won both games of the double bill from the Norfolk Tars today, 13 to 0 and 12 to 2. Bert Gardin pitched the opener and held the visitors to three singles. He allowed only one runner to reach second base. The Goobers pounded Dozier's offerings to every corner of the field, registering seventeen safeties and thirteen runs. Henry, Shaw and Whitted led the assault with a total of ten hits out of fourteen possible chances. Owers, a recruit, pitched the second game, and was nicked for three hits in the first inning, which, with a base on balls, netted the Tars two runs, but held them safe through the remaining six innings. Shepherd, a Chester sand-lotter, pitched the first six innings for the Tars and allowed fifteen hits for twelve runs, Henry and Whitted leading the assault with three each.

WEST END GUN CLUB

Ned Daniel, of Lynchburg, Guest of Club for Day, and Shoots 85 Clap.

Ned Daniel, of Lynchburg, dropped in for the club shoot at the West End trap Saturday. He only skipped one target in the regular score, shooting a 38 per cent clip. W. A. Hammond, Jr., was high amateur, one target behind the Hill City professional, with Charlie Cooke right up under his neck with 47 to his credit. The veteran Hammond, Sr., and W. L. Boyd landed in third place, while after them Class A men were strung out to the Cary Street road. Cary Sheppard was the honor man in Class B. W. J. Blanton, of Caroline County, was a guest of the club. He made a good score, it being the first clay-pigeon shoot he ever participated in.

Next Saturday Class A men will be squared in teams and practiced together from now until the State Trapshooters Association's annual tournament, which will be held in Lynchburg Labor Day.
